

Technical system management and consultancy for the superyacht industry

At Crest Systems we specialise in technical system management and consultancy for the superyacht industry. For both new builds and refits we offer design, management and support covering AV, IT, Communications and Lighting systems. Whether it is for on-demand consultancy requirements or complete projects from initial specification through to ongoing support, our experience and knowledge across onboard technical systems, technology and third party integration ensures we can help you achieve technical excellence.

Services

Every superyacht is unique and every system has its own complexities but our approach remains consistent - providing the very best technical advice, engineering, management and support services.

Crest Systems works with all parties involved to review technologies applied. As well as resolutely testing that the system design and specifications can and will match user expectations and required functionality, we also manage the integration of multiple third party systems. We ensure that your onboard systems deliver what you need, when you need it. That they are delivered as per the specification, are delivered on time and on budget providing seamless operation.

We have three core service categories:

DESIGN

System design is integral to the execution and efficiency of your onboard systems. We work with you to develop a system foundation that supports the functionality, system capabilities and future expansion you require.

MANAGEMENT

Technical management is at the heart of what we do. Our experience in managing the proposal, suppliers, installation and handover stages ensures you receive your systems on time, on budget and on specification.

SUPPORT

Our technical support services are tailored to suit the specific needs of your yacht and crew once at sea. We are on hand to trouble shoot, resolve issues and help establish continuous operation and uninterrupted service.
